

Beverly Folmer

September 1, 1954 - December 10, 2014

Pending with The Bride Church

Tribute Wall

MM

“ The funnest time I had with Bev was when Shaan and Teresa were away. Bev didn't like being home alone, especially at night. She was gracious enough to let me spend a few nights. One night in particular she and I could not sleep for anything. So she invited me to sleep in her room. We spent the whole time commenting on people out all hours of the night and watnot. It seemed everything we said would have us laughing so hard and deeply. Our sides ached/cramped, tears flowed from our eyes in laughter. Everything, no matter how "stupid" was "the" funniest thing ever. We laughed all night. And, for God to allow that time, special memory, and, Beverly Folmer, as one of my dearest friends, I have been blessed immensely. Sure, we had ups and downs from time to time, who doesn't. I love you, Shaan, you were/are her life. Teresa, I love you, you are truly the woman for Shaan. And, you both gave her someone she longed for and wasn't so sure she'd be with us long enough to receive, a grand baby. You gave her, Avery <3 You became a family and she was more proud of it than anything. Thank you for my dear friend, Lord. I 'know' she is resting in Your love, awaiting her children an their children. Thank you for sharing her in my life <3 God pour Your love and peace and protection over and throughout the lives of her children, grand children and family and many, many friends dear to her heart. In Jesus glorious, powerful name, amen. RIP til we meet again, Bev <3 <3 <3

Monica Carson Mason - January 08, 2015 at 03:45 AM

MM

“ Monica Carson Mason lit a candle in memory of Beverly Folmer

Monica Carson Mason - January 08, 2015 at 03:11 AM